Dear Parents,

Happy Hearts Preschool is a small, nurturing, loving and educational nursery school run by Laura Gollub. With small classes and an excellent teacher / child ratio, we cater for children from 3 months to 6 years with half- and full-day options on all or various days per week. We believe that every child has the right to a wonderful childhood filled with love, laughter, exciting experiences and a little bit of magic, and therefore aim to provide an environment that facilitates this. Our beautiful classrooms and playground have been carefully pieced together in order to offer your child maximum learning and play experiences. We also offer a full CCTV facility where you are able to log in from any device and view the school at all times, in order to give you piece of mind.

Classes:

We offer the following classes:

Baby Class: Ages 3 months – 18 months

Toddler Class: Ages 18 months – 3 years

Senior Class: 3 years – 5 years

Grade R: 5 years – 6 years

All classes have an assistant and our teachers have the necessary qualifications and first-aid training.

Curriculum:

Our curriculum is Caps based to ensure that the children are school ready, and our teaching style incorporates; Reggio, Montessori and ECD principles and materials. Our unique approach allows for as much one on one time with your child as possible as well as allowing us to work with your child at their individual pace. We focus on improving and developing fine motor skills, language, literacy, numeracy, perceptual skills, problem solving, creative thinking, social skills, emotional skills and gross motor skills.

Our curriculum consists of various themes that last for 1-2 weeks. Maths, literacy, arts, science, social sciences and technology, are all be presented in fun ways, using the current theme. Each child will also get a turn once a term to be Mr Baker on a Friday.

Why mixed-aged group classes?

Happy Hearts chose to implement mixed age group classes for the many benefits it carries. Mixed-aged classes include children from two consecutive grades in one classroom. A mixed-age program allows each child to move through content and skill areas at their own pace, while teachers tailor instruction according to each student's readiness level and ability. Renowned psychologists, pedagogists, and educators have highlighted the importance of group learning benefits in mixed-age classrooms. The Montessori method of teaching, for instance, stresses that multi-age groupings can greatly benefit children. Here are some of the ways that multi-age grouping can benefit children:

- Social and emotional development - Research has shown that children in mixed-age classrooms have increased social and emotional understanding, engage in both collaborative and independent learning with greater ease, and have more positive peer interactions than their counterparts in single-grade classrooms.
- Nurtures Early Childhood Learning and Leadership - Allowing younger children to learn from older playmates, little ones could gain more emotional support and social learning from older children than from those near their own age. The older children, on the other hand, also get to practice nurturance and develop vital leadership skills by caring after their younger playmates. Instilling leadership qualities early on makes them more independent and proactive to opportunities.
- Makes Children Cooperative rather than Competitive - Since every learner is of the same age in a traditional classroom setting, the inclination to compete and come first becomes the sole objective for children. Instead of embracing the journey together, they forget to have fun while they learn.

In mixed-age groups children likely become more cooperative. During learning sessions and fun activities, they learn to care for themselves as well as their peers while they learn together.

The mixed-age learning model thus opens up new doors of perspective and helps children see each other as individuals than contenders.

- Introduces New Ways to Develop and Grow - Children found in same-age learning environments tend to possess qualities on a similar scale, leaving little room for creative problem-solving. In a mixed-age room environment, each child is presented with ample opportunities to strengthen their weaknesses and develop solutions as they observe, interact, and grow. For instance, older children can teach their juniors the value of patience and empathy while younger children can ask seniors for assistance if they get stuck in between. By mixing together, children can also cultivate their bilingual skills and learn new languages along with their peers from different backgrounds. Such a dynamic setting inculcates valuable life skills along with academic knowledge.

- Grows Confidence in Children

Our teachers are trained to meet the diverse and varying learning styles of our students. Teachers use direct instruction with individuals, small flexible groups or the whole class to develop necessary skills and concepts, and to promote learning among peers. Our team has developed an integrated curriculum approach, which allows separate curriculum areas to be integrated in a meaningful way and develops student choice and ownership through activities that are tailored to their interests.

Progress Reports:

The children will be assessed and observed throughout the year and parents will receive bi-annual progress reports. Parent teacher talks will be done at half year. We will however make contact with you before any of the above steps are followed. If we cannot reach you or next of kin, we will follow the above protocol.

Sickness at School:

If a child complains of illness at school, or a staff member notices signs of illness, the parents will be contacted and if necessary, required to collect their child from the school.

A child should not be sent to school in the following circumstances:

- ♥ If a child is running a temperature during the night before
- ♥ If a child has been vomiting or had diarrhoea during the night before
- ♥ If the child's nose is thick with mucous and / or has a cough with lots of phlegm
- ♥ If the child has nits or lice.
- ♥ If a child is on antibiotics.

If your child shows any signs of illness but your Doctor has indicated it is merely allergies and not contagious, a medical certificate needs to please be given to the class teacher indicating that your child is fit for school and not contagious. It is in the interest of the other children at school as well as the staff that no sick child is permitted to school.

Discipline:

Discipline is an important part of a child's development. Safe and firm boundaries make a child feel secure. At Happy Hearts we prefer to use discipline methods that will encourage intrinsic discipline and motivation. Children act out when they are experiencing a problem and it is our job as teachers/adults/ parents to help them navigate and solve the problem rather than punish or shame them. We do not make use of a naughty corner, time out, or reward charts as although these methods can encourage good behaviour they do not solve the problem that the child is experiencing, and it only encourages the child to do something in return for something. Should your child be acting out at school or behaving in a way that we feel might be cause for concern, we will discuss in detail with you what could be the problem and also how to resolve this.

Hitting and Biting Policy:

As a parent myself I know how distressing it is when your child is bitten or hit. Unfortunately, this type of behavior is very common for children aged between 1-3. I have done quite a bit of research on this subject and found the following information to be quite helpful in understanding and dealing with this behavior:

Biting at any nursery school is a difficult situation, and different parents have different views on biting. Literature suggests that biting is a natural developmental stage that many children go through. Once a child turns 3 years old, biting may indicate other behavior problems, especially if the biting incidents are frequent. Because of the developmental nature of most biting, experts stress that biting is not something to blame on a child, parent or teachers.

Infants:

For infants, developmental theorists suggest biting is probably a form of exploration, infants use their mouth to explore because it is one of the most developed parts of their bodies.

Infants lack self-control and some babies may bite because there is something to bite, others bite when they are excited or over stimulated.

Toddlers:

Theorists believe that like infants biting, toddlers between 12-36 months is a form of communication i.e. to communicate frustration or anger. Toddlers seldom plan ahead but rather see and act on what they are experiencing at the moment. Toddlers do not always have the language necessary to control a situation, or their attempt at communication are not respected or understood. Biting or hitting then becomes a powerful way to communicate with others and control the environment. Many toddlers display extreme ranges of emotions both happy and sad and they lack labels for communicating these emotions. Occasionally biting occurs after the age of 3 for some of the same reasons as it does for infants and toddlers; to get control of a situation, for attention, as a self- defense or out of extreme frustration and anger. Frequent biting after the age of 3 may however also indicate other behavior problems which may need to be further addressed.

I have put together a biting and hitting policy which will hopefully help to address the concerns any of you may have. The following procedure will be taken:

- ♥ Staff will stay calm and not overreact
- ♥ The bitten/hit child will be comforted
- ♥ The biter/hitter will be removed from the situation and spoken to
- ♥ The wound will be cleaned, and Arnica bruise ointment will be applied
- ♥ The parents of both children will be informed
- ♥ An incident report will be filled out
- ♥ If this is a recurrent situation the child will be shadowed by their teacher and the observations monitored to see why biting/hitting is occurring
- ♥ If we have a child that is biting or hitting on a regular basis, we will put a behavioral management program in place with the full involvement of the parents
- ♥ If the situation remains unresolved, I reserve the right to request a behavior evaluation from a child psychologist.

Myself and my staff do also try and intervene when possible as to stop biting or hitting but this isn't always possible. I do also discuss with both children afterwards why we don't hit or bite and try to find out why they did and help them identify the emotion they were feeling at the time and what they could rather do instead when they feel upset.

I really hope this helps you all in dealing with these difficult situations. Please feel free to discuss any of the above with me.

2,3,4 or 5 Day Week

The 2, 3 or 4 day option will be offered to children in the 1 – 4 year age group, When your child reaches the 4-5 year age group (00) they will be expected to attend school on a 5 day week. At the Grade 00 level we are already starting to work towards school readiness and therefore perceptual activities and assessments play a larger role in the classroom. Being at school 3 days a week does not allow for teachers to do sufficient activities and assessments.

When starting school for the first time your child will need to attend school for a full 5 days for the first two weeks so as to settle them into school properly.

Items provided by you annually:

- ♥ 4x packets of wet wipes
- ♥ 2x box tissues
- ♥ 1x box plasters
- ♥ Non spill water bottle
